THE FUTURE OF UK GENERAL PRACTICE

Professor Helen Stokes-Lampard

MBBS (Lon), FRCGP, PhD, DFSRH, DRCOG, LOC(IUS)

Chair of the Royal College of General Practitioners

Helen Stokes-Lampard is a partner at The Westgate Practice in Lichfield which she joined in 2002, having just completed her academic GP training in inner city Birmingham and at the Medical School in Birmingham University.

She is Chair of the Royal College of General Practitioners (RCGP), the UK's largest Medical Royal College, representing over 52,000 family doctors across the UK. The Chair shapes policy and leads the strategy of the College, working with politicians, policy makers and the media to ensure that the 'voice' of general practice and GPs is understood and represented. Helen was previously RCGP Honorary Treasurer (2012-16), the first female to hold this position. Until becoming RCGP Chair she was the Head of Primary Care Teaching in the University of Birmingham.

Her diverse research interests have spanned gynaecological cancer screening, all aspects of women's health, epidemiology and data linkage studies.

She was Clinical Director of the accredited Primary Care Trials Unit at Birmingham until July 2012 when she resigned to allow her time to concentrate on her RCGP roles. She was also Head of the dynamic Academic GP Trainees programme at Birmingham (including MOD, NIHR and locally funded academic GP trainees).

The talk will discuss how General Practice will develop in a rapidly evolving world. The demands placed upon it by the patients' expectations, the effects of social media and the possibilities of litigation, all this taking place in an obesogenic environment.

All in a day's work...!
